CASF swears in New Board of Directors and President

CASF installed a new Board of Directors to be headed by incoming President Jeff Slade at its 68th Annual Installation and Awards Banquet, held June 5, at Pier 66 Rooftop. Slade has served on the CASF Board since 2005. He has chaired numerous committees, including the Craftsmanship Awards, Young Leaders, Digital Communications and Youth Education committees. Slade assumed presidency of the Board for CASF's 2018-19 fiscal year, effective July 1, 2018.

"Jeff is a seasoned professional who will build on CASF's rich legacy as South Florida's leading association representing commercial construction," said CASF Executive Director Remy Mackowski.

Slade currently serves as Senior Vice President of Operations for Miller Construction Company. Slade joined Miller Construction in 1998 after graduating from the University of Florida M.E. Rinker School of Building Construction. He holds the distinction of being the only person ever to have been awarded a CASF scholarship and subsequently been elected to chair the CASF Board of Directors.

Slade was sworn in with the entire 2018-19 Board, which included five members newly elected by the CASF general membership. These were:

- Gary Arkin, Owner & President, Premier Stoneworks
- Frank Frione, CEO, GFA International
- Mike Fee, President, Lotspeich Co. of Florida
- Randy Farmer, Key Account Manager, CEMEX
- Brian Mueller, Executive Vice President & Co-Owner, Southeast Mechanical Contractors

All five new Board members were elected for a two-year term. Arkin is serving his first term as a CASF director, while the other four were re-elected as popular incumbents. They join sitting members of the CASF Board, which, in addition to Slade, include:

- Russell Anderson, Vice President, Preconstruction & Procurement, Turnberry Associates
- Mark Butters, Vice President of Construction & CFO, Butters Construction & Development
- Jessica Chen, Project Executive, Suffolk Construction
- Justin Lord, President, Central Broward Construction
- Sid Miller, President & CEO, Miller Glass & Glazing
- Rick Schuerger, Project Executive, John Moriarty and Associates of Florida
- Maribeth Sitkowski, Business Development Specialist, Balfour Beatty Construction
- Mindy Szarowitz, Director of Business Development, Baker Concrete Construction
- Alex Smith, Vice President, MOSS
- Doug Wallace, Vice President of Preconstruction, Stiles Construction Company

The CASF BOD also contains two non-voting advisors. They are Legal Advisor Heath Eskalyo, a Principal Partner and CFO with Kelly Kronenberg, and Financial Advisor Tyler Johnson, a Manager with Keefe McCullough

As President of the CASF Board, Slade will chair a 2018-19 Executive Committee that will include First Vice President Sid Miller, Second Vice President Doug Wallace, Secretary/Treasurer Justin Lord, Immediate Past President Mindy Szarowitz and Past President Russell Anderson.

In addition to swearing in its new Board, CASF honored numerous long-time members at its annual Awards Banquet. The list of honorees spanned six decades, and the longest-tenured — CEMEX and Hill York — have been continuous members since 1958. The full list:
